Clerk – Mrs Joanne Bradley 01757 212053

Dear Friends,

Autumn is properly upon us now. The beginnings of winter have been felt in all kinds of ways. We have a lot of “beginnings” in our neck of the woods.

This month Advent begins, the start of the church’s annual liturgical calendar as we journey towards Christmas. Advent is a season of thoughtful preparation as we consider what it means to find God in the midst of our daily lives. The invitation is to be open to grace, love and new beginnings in our own lives and our life together.

Shortly after Christmas, 2012 looms. Each new year we perhaps get to rethink our priorities and take a few small steps in a new direction, or perhaps bring wholesale change to our lives.

Being in the midst of such an international community, we also have the start of the year in the Chinese, Hindu and Orthodox calendars each year, to name just three.

The university got into full swing again just a few weeks ago, and for thousands of first year undergraduate students their first days and weeks away from home have been shaped by new experience after new experience. It’s exciting, but demanding.

Second year students living off campus for the first time are adjusting to life in a shared house away from campus, usually their first experience of negotiating the sharing of space, responsibilities and living in the midst of a mixed community in the parish. It’s exciting, but demanding. From me and from many, a warm welcome to you all! If you live on Badger Hill, take a look at the Residents Community Group website.
<http://www.badger-hill-residents.org>

Student or long term resident, if you haven’t done so already, why not knock on your neighbours’ doors and say hello. Take a cake with you. Get to know each other, even if only a little. It really helps us to live together, and ensure that this particular new beginning remains full or promise as the year unfolds.

Rory
