Dear Friends,

At a recent visit to the Borthwick Institute I was somehow moved when I read a note by Lord Deramore, written shortly after the sale of Heslington Hall, in which he expressed his desire for the new owner of the Hall to protect the welfare of the people of Heslington. Clearly, our community was close to Lord Deramore's heart.

Times have changed. Today we do not enjoy the protection of a well-meaning landowner. In this day and age, we ourselves are responsible for the welfare of our community. But how?

In my previous Outlook letter I wrote: The greater our blessings, the greater our duty to share with those less fortunate. With this edition of Outlook you will find a leaflet inviting you to do just that: sharing.

Heslington Church has teamed up with the Heslington Scouts and our local primary schools to collect food for local charities Carecent and the York Foodbank this Harvest. You are invited to join us. Please bring your donations to the Harvest Fair on Saturday 12th October. Young people will be ready to receive your contribution.

While you are there, you may like to have a look around the various stalls selling home-made preserves, cakes, arts & crafts, etc. The Scouts will be selling hot dogs from 1-3pm, and from 4-6pm simply delicious food will be served in the Harvest Café. Believe me, it may be worth staying all afternoon!

I was amazed when I heard a rich business man speak about the 'fun' of philanthropy. He said that acquiring his wealth, using clever and hard-edge business strategies, made him feel great, but subsequently giving it all away made him feel even better. You and I might not fall in his tax bracket, but we can all share in the joyful and satisfying privilege of sharing with those less fortunate.

Love and prayers, Jan Nobel
