Dear Friends,

Ready... steady... bake! The Great British Bake Off is back on the telly. It's entertaining enough, but I wonder if technology is letting us down. Never mind those 50" ultra High Definition television screens, isn't it high time they invented a way of transmitting the smell of the cakes along with the visuals? Or better still, to have a small sample of each cake teleported straight into your living room? Now that would be worth paying the license fee! Baking is both timeless and magical. Generation after generation has found great joy in mixing honest ingredients, kneading them to a smooth dough, which when allowed to rest miraculously grows, and when baked in the oven fills the house with the most mouth-watering aroma. Surely there aren't many things in life more satisfying than tasting the first still-warm slice of freshly baked bread?

Jesus once told a story about a woman who mixed a small amount of yeast into a large batch of dough. She waited and waited until the whole batch was ready for the oven. Small actions, performed in faith and patience, can lead to great results.

Sometimes I think that Jesus intends us all to become master bakers. He offers us the best ingredients for free. His yeast of life never runs out of date. But it's up to us to mix, knead, wait, shape and bake, day after day, week after week, year after year. There will be ups and downs. Not every attempt will result into a showstopper. But when the aroma of God's Spirit starts to permeate your life, you lose that restless need for approval and that endless desire to be star baker every week. Simplicity, honesty, charity and peace become much more important. So, ready... steady... bake!

Love and prayers,

Rev Johannes Nobel
